VALUABLE COLLECTION

AUTOGRAPH LETTERS

DISTINGUISHED PERSONS,

FROM THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH TO THAT OF JAMES II.

AMONG WHICH WILL BE FOUND,

Those of Queen Elizabeth; Mary Queen of Scots, and her Mother Mary of Guise; Cardinal Beaton; the Regents of Scotland, Arran, Mar, and Murray; the Earls of Sussex and Bedford; Lord Hunsdon; James VIth of Scotland; Anne of Denmark; Charles I. and II.; the Queen of Bohemia; the Duke of Monmouth and Lord Chancellor Bacon; Lord Rochester, &c. &c. &c.

A considerable number relate to that period of Scottish History to which the public attention has been awakened by the powerful pen of THE AUTHOR OF WAVERLEY, particularly to "the crafty Lauderdale, the dissolute Rothes; Dumbarton;" Douglas, "the twice-turned Traitor, baith to Country and King;" and above all, one of Claverhouse, describing the Fight of Drumclog;—with many illustrative of Burnet's History of his Own Times, and other Passages of English and Scottish History.

BOUR DATE

CATALOGUE OF AUTOGRAPHS.

1 JAMES EARL OF ARRAN, Regent of Scotland July 1, 1543

Licence for Patrick Lord Gray to remain at home, sending forth his Brother to join the army convened to meet at Haddington on the 30th June, 1543.

2 Mary of Guise (Widow of James V. King of Scotland) of to the Lord Gray - June 22, s. a.

Commanding him to join the Earl of Arrol at Dundee, and convene the country to watch the fleet of the King of Denmark, which then appeared upon the coast of Scotland.

3 Mary Queen of Scots to the Lord Gray Craigmillar, 11th Sept. 1571 //

Announcing to him that the baptism of her dearest Son, the Prince, will take place shortly at Streveling, whereunto the Ambassadors of the greatest Princes in Christendom will resort; and that it is most needfull she should be honorably attended upon the occasion. She therefore requires his attendance, apparelled in such honest manner as the tyme and occasion craves; for he will not again in many years have the like there in hand.

4 John Earl of Mar, Regent of Scotland, to Lord Grey 11th Sept. 157

Requesting him to send to Edinburgh a piece of ordnance (Bachtie) which he had promised the late Regent.

-5 Queen Elizabeth to the Abbot of Dumfermling 20th Jan. 1582

Expressing her high approbation of his conduct in the furtherance of the cause of religion, and the continuance of amity between the two realmes.

to the Lord Robert Dudley (afterward Earl of Leicester) - - 26th Feb. 1561

General professions of gratitude for favours received. Trusts that the amyty between their Sovereigns may grow to a full perfection, that among other advantages, the subjects may cultivate the friendships begun between them. He refers him to the accredited bearer of the letter for information on the state of affairs in Scotland. Indeed the Letter seems only to have been intended for the purpose of introducing some secret negotiation between them.

7 James VI. of Scotland to the Master of Gray (Lord Grey) - - - 16th April, 1594

Announcing his intention of journeying to the North to prosecute the Papist Earls, and requiring Lord Gray's attendance at a meeting of Estates convened for the 26th April, to settle measures preliminary to that journey.

8 Anne of Denmark, Queen of James VI., to the Mistress of Gray (Lady Grey) 6th Sept. 1597

Requesting her attendance upon her in a journey to Dundee.

9 Elizabeth, Queen of Bohemia, to her Father, James 1.

May 3, 1613 Exista

From Middelberg, (in French), expressive of the attentions of the Lord Admiral (Earl of Nottingham) during her passage, and account of her reception with marks of affection by the people of her Husband's States.

10 Charles I.

Carisbrook Castle, Dec. 27, 1647 actions

Warrant addressed to the Privy Seal of Scotland.

11 Charles II. - - 20th Dec. 1667

To the Council and President of the College of Justice in Scotland, respecting the seizure of a foreign vessel.—Countersigned by the Earl of Landerdale.

12 Christian, Duke of Holstein (afterward King of Denmark) - - - 6th May, 1678

Addressed most probably to the Duke of Lauderdale, with a present of six carriage-horses, as a mark of his gratitude for his good offices in the re-establishment of him in his States.

Lauderdale - Metz, 23d May, s. a.

Thanking him for interesting himself about his concerns in Scotland. Considers it as a happy omen, that as the King thought no person so fit to manage his concerns in the treaty of marriage between himself and his wife, there can be no doubt that as he was instrumental in bringing them together, he will also see their concerns settled upon a secure foundation.

Thorpe 14 Henry Duke of Rohan to Monsieur de Mayerne Paris, 8th Nov. 1617

Letter of compliment. He tells him, that having made a journey into Piedmont, the Duke of Savoy received him honourably, and that they spoke of Mayerne with great esteem. On his return he found the British Embassador about to leave the French Court, without any successor being named, for which he is very sorry, seeing that the alliance between the countries may be interrupted, and that of Spain courted, which he thinks cannot fail to be prejudicial to the interests of the (reformed) religion. Thinks King James will listen to this suggestion when he hears that it comes from him, and that it is given with sincerity and fidelity.

Sends his Majesty some poor fruits of his diligence, being a little breviate of the Irish business.

16 Thomas Radclyffe, Earl of Sussex, to the Earl of Leicester - Carlyle, 31st Aug. 1570

Has sent the bearer, George Frevile, fully instructed in what has occurred on the Borders. Account of his negotiation with the Lord Herries, who feared that his purpose was to make him forsake his Queen: but who is willing in all things to follow the Queen's (Elizabeth) pleasure. His expedition has put a greater fear into all the Borders than any one thing that has been done. He has used no other extremity than that of throwing down castles, and therefore all men rest contented with their losses, that they may be secure from henceforth. Recommends Frevile to Leicester's patronage.

17 Henry Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Cecill

Berwick, 22d March, 1568

Announces the coming of Mr. Wood from the Regent, with a copy of the Articles entered into between the Regent and his adversaries. The Regent is come to Kelso to take measures against the disorders committed on the Borders, and hath required Hunsdon to aid him with horse and foot to be sent to Warke under Sir John Forster, which he purposes to comply with, as it may tend to the benefit and quiet of both realmes. Trusts her Majesty will wink at it, and impute the blame to him, if any thing be said.

18 Spottiswoode, Archbishop of St. Andrew's, to Jhon Murray, of his Majesty's Bed-chamber

St. Andrew's, 5th Feb. 1617 w here

In answer to a recommendation of Alexander Hume, to be Pastor of the Kirk of Mortoune, &c.

19 Bruyningh, Pensioner of Evenson, to Sir Dudley Carleton - 17th June, 1617

Giving him an account of the proceedings of the Synod of Zetlande.

20 Sir Nicholas Throckmorton to Mr. John Wood
(Murray's Agent) Hatfield, 31st July, 1568

Sends him a Letter from Murray, which came through the hands of Leicester. The Queen requires him to repair to the Court at Hatfield, that he may have communication touching the principal matter for which he came. Intelligence has been received of serious disagreement between the Lords in Scotland, viz. between Morton and the Regent, and of other things of which he shall be informed at his coming. He takes thought for his lodging, the town being so full, it will be necessary that he should return and lodge at Barnet. One Hamilton is arrived, who hath a passport into France. He is not of Throckmorton's acquaintance.

21 A. De Randewyk to Sir Dudley Carleton

La Haye, 18th June, 1618 - 16

Letter of intelligence (in French).

22 Cardinal Beatoun to the Lord Secretary

Lyons, 21st Oct. s. a. (sed 1568-9) tustace

General intelligence of the success of his negotiation, deprecating impatient haste, and desiring to be excused to the Lords for not writing to them at present.

23 Sir W. Maitland of Lethington (Secretary of Scot-

The Camp before Haddon, 22d June, 1568

Thanking him for his Letters: desiring him to continue to write him of all occurrences in England, and remitting him to the bearer for information on Scottish affairs.

24 Sir W. Maitland to Sir Nicholas Throckmorton

21st May, 1568

Refers him to the bearer, a trusty servant of the Regent's, for inforzemation; begs his assistance in the ordering of his suit at Court, he having express commandment to conform himself wholly to Throck-morton's instructions. It is necessary for the (Confederate) Lords to be at some certainty with the Queen (Elizabeth), now the matter is come to such a point, that they must have assured protection. If it be refused from England, they must have it from some other place.

of Berwick - Edinb. 7th Feb. 1565

Complains of his journey from Berwick to Edinburgh; the Ambassadour was heartily sick of it, and would as willingly return as he came, being able to do little good for the Lords, though has done his endeavour. The Earls of Arran and Glencairne utterly refused. The Parliament is continued till the 12th of March. Many devilish inventions against the Protestants. To shew how well the Queen (Mary) is minded towards them, and the sweet man her Husband, with the holy man his Father, and the wise man of Athol, they carried their candles at a mass on Candlemas-day. There is come from divers Papist Princes a bond for the Queen to subscribe against religion. All things governed in the Court to the content of no man. The Ambassador hath spoken thrice with the Queen and Darnley. Upon Sunday the Order will be present with great solemnities, and on Thursday after he departeth.

St. Nicholas, 12th Aug. 1568

He seems to have been sent on a mission to the Czar of Muscovy, perhaps to negotiate in favour of the English Company of Merchants, to whose Letters he refers Leicester for a relation of what has lately occurred there. He gives a curious picture of the despotic and cruel nature of the reigning Prince, but he expects a good reception and favourable negotiation.

27 Lady Mary Seton (one of the four Maries) to * 20th July, s. a.

A French letter of compliment to some one not named.

28 Margaret Kircaldy (Wife of Kircaldy of Grange) to * - - 31st May, s. a.

French letter of thanks to some unknown person, for an appointment in the service of the Queen.

29 Mary Fleming (one of the four Maries) to Mademoiselle de Trebron - - no date

Respecting some charge brought against her by some one she calls Mons. Quodinguam. Desires her good sister to let her know the particulars. Desires to kiss the hands of Lady Hontingeme, &c. She murders proper names with characteristic negligence.

10 6 30 Secretary Windebank

20th March, 1637 frace

Note, signifying that a petition is referred to the Lord Treasurer and Secretary Cottington.

31 William Hamilton, Earl of Lanark, to * Edinb. 17th April, 1644 Found

Since his coming into Scotland he has reconciled himself to Church and State. Trusts the King will bring his Brother to a legal trial, and it will give his friends (of whom he has good store) a happy occasion to show their resentment of his injuries.

Scotland is in the greatest confusion. All the undertaking Scots are at Carlisle with five or six hundred horse, and are to raise foot and horse in Cumberland. The Laird of Laws' and Sinclair's regiments are dispatched to Dumfries, but he fears too late. The Marquis of Huntly is up in the North with all his bankrupt kindred. At the Committee, where he is now sitting, it is resolved that the Marquis of Argyll is to have a Commission for suppressing this rebellion, as commander-in-chief. Earl Marischal to command the horse, Lord Elcho the foot. Lord Barkly is appointed to go President of that Committee, which is to attend the army. The Earl of Callander is again employed. While he is writing, he is advertised that the Scots are at Lough Lomond and Annin, with six or seven thousand horse and foot.

32 George Monk, Earl of Albemarle, to ****

21st April, 1666 grace

In favour of one James Gould.

33 Duke of Schomberg to (the Earl of Lauderdale?) Lisbon, 20th June, s. a. A Peace, which has changed the face of affairs, having separated them, he has been obliged to return to his home in France, leaving his Son, the oldest Colonel of the English troops, to conduct them, and to render an account to his Majesty. He most earnestly desires the favour of the person whom he addresses, to procure for his Son permanent employment in the English service, if even it should be in the Indies, being desirous that he should establish himself, and found a family in England. Desires to know in what state another affair in which he is interested, remains.

34 Denzil Lord Holles (to the Earl of Lauderdale?) Paris, \(\frac{3}{13}th\) Nov. 1665

In favour of a Scottish merchant, who has been wronged and oppressed by the French.

Rothes - Glasgow, 1st June, 1679

A MOST INTERESTING LETTER, containing an account of the Battle with the Covenanters at Drumclog.

This Letter is an invaluable illustration of Sir Walter Scott's Tale of Old Mortality; in which every reader will remember the Fight of Drumclog. It was dispatched to the Earl of Rothes the moment after the arrival of Claverhouse in safety at Glasgow. This fight is also mentioned in the Memoirs of Captain Creighton, published by Dean Swift, who says the leader of the rebels was Robert Hamilton, second brother of the Royal House of Preston; that the rebels were eight or nine thousand strong, and that Clavers' men did not exceed 180. Creighton is mistaken in the name of the Cornet that was killed; he calls him Robert Graham; his name appears to have been Crafford, (i. e. Crawford). He says that "the rebels, finding the Cornet's body, and supposing it to be that of Clavers, because the name of Graham was wrought in the shirt-neck, treated it with the utmost inhumanity, cutting off the nose, picking out the eyes, and stabbing it through in a hundred places."-Creighton mentions the circumstance of Claverhouse's horse trailing his entrails along for two miles from the place of battle. We see from the present letter, that it was "half an mile" only.

of Lauderdale - - 2d April, 1679

Wishes the Bill of Attainder against him to take its course: those who are for moderating the bill, advise the greatest prejudice to him possible; for a measure of unmodified severity must be rejected both by the King and the Lords. Requests the Duke's interference with the King, who he is assured does not only intend him justice, but all kindness imaginable. If he should any way suffer for the letters to Montague, the King could never in future expect a Secretary to do or write any thing but what might be approved by Parliament.—(See Burnet's Own Times, anno 1679).

37 William Earl of Winchilsea to the Earl of Lauderdale? Pera of Constantinople, Sept. 27, s.a. Letter of introduction for Mr. William Galt, a Scotch merchant.

38 Dr. P. Mews, Bishop of Bath and Wells, to the Duke of Lauderdale - Feb. 12, 1680

The President of St. John's College, ready to accommodate the Duke with quarters, had refused the Duke of Monmouth.

39 Sir Edward Nicholas to the Same 2d Dec. 1661

Has received his Letter, advertising that the King hath given order to have Moyes at his chamber this evening. Will cause him to be kept close when he comes; but knows not to whom he is to address himself to know if he is sent for.

12

40 William Lord Bellenden to the Hon. H. Coventrie
13th May, 1667-furt

Desiring his earnest endeavours to restore the Earl of Roxburgh to his regiment, of which he had been deprived; the King desiring it, and recommending the business to Coventry's care. Lord Bellenden promises him a douceur of 500l. if it should be obtained.

41 Sir Leoline Jenkins to the Duke of Lauderdale

Whitehall, June 5, 1680 Frace

Desiring his attendance in the Court of Chancery on the 15th, to give his testimony, pursuant to an Order in Council.

42 Sir R. Bulstrode (Ambassador at Brussels) to the Duke of Lauderdale - 30th Dec. 1678

Letter of compliment on the approach of the new year.

43 Duke of Montrose to the Earl of Lauderdale

Jan. 10, 1661

Desiring his assistance in carrying into effect the King's gift to him out the Customs of Glasgow; and thanking him for the appointment of a person he recommended to be Sheriff's Clerk of Stirling.

44 William Earl of Annandale to the Earl of Rothes

7th July, 1667 Libra

Giving him notice of a new rising in Galloway, and meditated attack upon Dumfries: pointing out the necessity of assistance from the standing force of the country, and requesting instructions from the Council

45 Dr. James Sharp, Archbishop of St. Andrew's, to the Earl of Tweedale - 29th Dec. 1668

Concerning a Commission of Plantation to be held at Edinburgh in January 1669.

46 Alexander Young, Bishop of Edinburgh, to the Active Archbishop of St. Andrew's June 29, 1675

State of the Church of Scotland in his diocese; but few conventicles, and which might be very easily suppressed.

47 John Paterson, Bishop of Galloway, to the Archbishop of St. Andrew's - July 3, 1675

State of the Church of Scotland; no difficulty in reducing the people to obedience. Bishop Ramsay's Letter to the Primate, in which he says — "I fancy I read G. Burnet's words: both have now discovered themselves to be of a furious and foolish temper, exposing them to the contempt of all sober and good men."—A very curious and interesting Letter.

of Lauderdale - without date

Affairs of the College. Presentations to Carlaverock and Loch Chyleshead. Bishop of Argyle's death. Election of a new Bishop not to be proceeded in until the Earl of Argyle and Archbishop of St. Andrew's are consulted.

49 James Ramsay, Bishop of Dumblain, to the Duke of Lauderdale - - 1st Aug. 1674

Has received an order from the Lords of the Council; and when he considers the misrepresentations which have been made of his conduct, is surprised at the elemency of the sentence against him. He most earnestly desires a fair and impartial trial, that he may justify himself, and his Grace's former favour to him.

50 Archibald Earl of Argyll to Lord Haltoun

19th April, 1680 2

Confirmation of the M'Leanes having invaded his Island of Tirie, and taken free quarters, exacting stents and impositions to the amount of a year's rent. Requests the evidence inclosed to be forwarded to the King, and desires instructions for the course to be taken.

51 Archibald Earl of Argyll to Sir George Monro

20th Sept. 1675 J

Account of the proceedings of the outlawed Scots, who are joined by the clans of Lord Macdonald and Lochiel; the course Argyll has taken, sending a drummer and messenger to require them to lay down their armes, without effect. He has secured the King's forces, who are not strong enough to stand against them, in the Castle of Dowart, and provides them at his own expence, while the rebels ruin the countrie and consume the cattle. Has written to the Chancellor, to call a Council for the 1st of October at Edinburgh, where he purposes to be. It is his opinion, that a considerable part of the standing force must be employed against them.

52 Elizabeth Duchess of Lauderdale to the Lord Register of Scotland - Aug. 8, s. a.

About her private pecuniary affairs: wishes him to procure, if he can, 500% and remit it to her; it will come most seasonable. The King holds on his old kind way to her Lord, and she does not in the least question the continuance of it. All the party are dispersed, but not broken, though they would make even the King believe so, that they may continue their cabals, to injure us with our friends.

53 Anne Duchess of Hamilton to the Earl of Lauderderdale - 29th Jan. 1672

Letter of compliment, and thanks for favours received and promised.

- 54 Anne Duchess of Buccleugh (Monmouth's Wife) to the Duke of Lauderdale Dec. 4, s. a.

 Letter of thanks for favours received.
- 55 Alexander, third Earl of Kellie, to the Earl of Lau-who derdale - 5th Nov. 1664

Letter on family affairs, his Nephew, &c. Sir James Turner presents his services. All in the Castle of Edinburgh will not be wanting in drinking the King's and his Lordship's health.

56 The Nobility of Scotland (21 in number) to King Charles II. - 11th Dec. 1679

Thanking him for sending his Royal Brother among them; professing all loyalty and attachment to their 109th King. No Scotsman can be an enemy to his Monarch, till he be first one to his country, &c.

57 The Earl of Dumfermline to the Earl of Lauderdale 26th Feb. 1671

Has made several applications to the Lords of the Treasury about Dumfermline, without success: they are daily diminishing his rights and revenues. He has therefore resolved to send up his petition of rights to the King, by the next post.

58 Earl of Kincardine to the Duke of Lauderdale

11th July, 1672 /

Has presented his Letter to the King, who exprest great satisfaction at what is done (in Scotland). He had not time to read the Act, but will do it to-morrow, and is of opinion that the money should never be employed to any other use than for the Militia. The King exprest great satisfaction at the heartiness and unanimity of the Parliament. All that hear of it, look upon it as a very considerable thing done for the King's service. The rest of the Letter contains foreign intelligence.

59 Amelia Countess of Atholl to the Duchess of Lauderdale - - 8th May, s. a. / Requesting her to make suit to the King for the arrears due to her Husband, as Justice General.

60 James Earl of Perthe to the Duke of Lauderdale

Drummond, 19th Sept. 1677

The necessity of his disordered and miserable affairs tye him to his place, (Drummond). He should condemn himself if he had occasioned these encumbrances; but being the effect of the unspotted loyalty of his Grandfather and Father, he rejoices in his poverty; and if the King's business called for the hazarding of the little remnant of his fortune, it should cheerfully be employed that way.

The rest of the Letter is in support of a recommendation by Lord Maynard of the bearer, a Gentleman who has employed his youth and strength in the service of his Prince, for whom he lost his fortune and ventured his life.

61 Earl of Home to the Earl of Lauderdale

Dec. 3, 1667

The Master of Ramsay's friends intend to move for a pardon to him, and Sir John Home's friends are willing to declare that he was not the perpetrator of the murder. He leaves the determination of the case to his Grace.

62 George Earl of Dumbarton to the Earl of Lauderdale Paris, 27th March, 1666

Will be at St. Valery before the last of April. If Lord Holles had not left him a thousand crowns, he should have been in a sad condition. His Lordship had promised that he should receive by Lord Arlington orders for landing, but he has only received passports; entreats him therefore to send those orders. Promises he will bring him a new mode of caises for perruques, made of perfumed leather.—(Curious for its odd orthography.)

63 Earl of Drumlanrigg to the Earl of Lauderdale 10th Nov. 1663

Letter of remembrance, recommending his poor services and affairs to his Lordship's consideration.

64 Earl of Caithness to the Earl of Lauderdale

14th May, s.a.

Entreating his Lordship's favour in furthering his claim to the Sheriffalty of Caithness.

65 Lord Glenurchye to the Earl of Lauderdale

11th April, 1665

Inclosing some petition or application, which he seems to second, as being of some concernment to such as most mind a Highland interest.

66 Charles Earl of Mar to the Duke of Lauderdale

18th Jan. 1679

Praying his aid in preventing the disbanding of his regiment.

67 Margaret Leslie Countess of Wemyss to the Dutchess of Lauderdale - 10th Aug. s. a.

Regrets her indisposition. Confident that her son Melvil will do his best to put her daughter Buccleugh's affairs in better order, begs his Grace's aid. Alludes to the cabals against Lauderdale, and Lord Kincardine's little tricks of misrepresentation. Thanks for the promised pictures of her Lord and self: she will not rest till it be performed. Closes with a flattering compliment.

68 Earl Mount Alexander to the Earl of Lauderdale

Dublin, Nov. 12, 1662 Land-

Thanks for a place conferred upon his Uncle; and request of a furtherance of some business place in Lady Ranelagh's hands.

69 Anne Countess of Balcarras to the Earl of Lauderdale attention of 13th Feb. s. a. farary

Her deep affliction at the loss of her two dear Lord Balcarasses; sends him a stone which was taken from her Son, of which she wishes to have the opinion of physicians.

70 Sir James Lockhart to Earl Crawfurd (Sc. Lord of Session), the Earl of Lindsay, and Earl Lauderdale - . - 30th April, s.a.

Apparently upon the Convention of the Delegates from Shires of Scotland, for the purpose of congratulating the King upon his restoration, and the representation of grievances. He says in one place, "I do from my soul wish that the going out from under the late usurpation, may be like the going out of the Israelites, against whom there did not so much as one dog open his mouth, although the Egyptians carried them on quickly thereafter to pursue them to their own destruction; and trust that the good and over-ruling hand of Providence, so conspicuously seen in the progress of this work, will most eminently appear in the close," &c.

71 Colonel Strother to the Duke of Newcastle

15th Sept. 1678 7 acc

Account of an affray with some suspected rebels near Learmouth.

72 Sir William Lockhart (Envoy to Brandenburgh) to Lord Lauderdale - April 2, 1672

Account of his arrival in Paris, and promise from Lord Montague to introduce him to the King the next day.

73 Ellis Leighton (probably Secretary of the Royal Company, in Ireland) to * March 23, 1666

Requesting him to pay the principal and interest of his Subscription, viz. 515%.

74 General Thomas Dalzel to the Earl of ****

Leith, Sept. 27, 1666 Zloy

All he has to beg is Eandeliers and Articles, without which his Majesty's Infantry here can neither be made good soldiers nor good subjects.'

75 Sir George Monro to the Duke of Lauderdale 4th Sept. 1675

Appears to relate to the appointment of a Quarter-master General to the Scottish army, which he thinks had better be styled Quarter-master Lieutenant, to take away the envy of the great men.

76 Sir Peter Wedderburne to the Earl of Lauderdale 20th Feb. 1666

Sends a copy of the Proclamation against a seditious pamphlet; a Mistress Guthrie and her Daughter have been examined respecting the pamphlet, but refused the oath, and were committed. One James Graham was also examined, but he cleared himself.

77 Lord Yester (Son to the Earl of Tweedale) to his Father-in-law Lord Lauderdale 23d Feb. s.a.

Family intelligence.

78 Sir William Davidson to the Earl of Lauderdale 29th Sept. 1662

Introduction to Mr. Abraham Hamer, manufacturer of gilt leather, who brings a box with specimens.

79 Sir Arthur Forbes to Lord Lauderdale

Dublin, 26th July, 1671

Begging him to favour a suit which the Son of the old Bishop of Clogher (now fast approaching his end) has to the King.

Protestations of eternal obligation and entire devotion.

Accort 81 Sir William Sharp to the Earl of Lauderdale

Dec. 1, 1663 -

About some sack (wine) which he was to procure for him.

82 Sir Alexander Gibson (Clerk of Council in Scotland) to the Earl of Lauderdale 18th Aug. 1679

Enclosing a Proclamation in Council, &c.

83 Colonel William Sinclair (Governor of Zetland) to the Earl of Lauderdale - 10th March, 1667

In favour of Captain Bond and his ship's company, who had been employed for eight months between Leith and Zetland, without pay, and who are in a miserable condition for want of clothes and necessaries.

84 W. Nau (Secretary to Mary Queen of Scots) to Secretary Walsingham - 15th June, 1586

Request permission to discharge a quarrelsome English lacquey he had preferred to the service of his mistress the Queen of Scots; and to apprise Sir W. Paulet in his first letters, that another may have a passport to be admitted, from among those he had required for himself.

85 The Same to the Same, without date, indorsed 1584

Having to impart something of consequence to his mistress the Queen of Scots, he requests him to procure him an audience without delay. And in the mean time to have a box, containing some medicines of Dr. Smyth for the Queen's use, promptly conveyed to her, as it greatly imports her restoration to health.

86 William Earl Marischal (7th Earl) to the Earl of action Lauderdale - - 28d Feb. 1661

His nephew Lord K. having cited before the Parliament the murtherers of his Father, he humbly solicits that the King will send a letter to the Lord Commissioner to hasten justice.

87 J. Drummond, Earl of Melfort, to the Earl of Lauderdale - Nov. 6, 1671

Soliciting for place and employment.

88 Sir Alexander Fraiser (Physician to Charles II.) to the Earl of Lauderdale - 2d Aug. 1663

Account of the Queen at Tunbridge: her great amendment from drinking the waters. Intended progress of the Court to Bath, where they are to arrive on the 27th August, and stay till Michaelmas. Humbly entreats that the Earl of Aboyne may not so tyrannize in the North, where a gentleman named Gordon has killed an uncle of Fraiser's, Mr. Alexander Lindsay, 72 years of age: begs they may not pass unpunished.

89 P. Hume, Earl of Marchmont, to Mr. Browne

11th April, 1678 advocate

Settling through his means a mode of correspondence with Lady March-Leb wont.

90 Sir W. Thomson (a Lord of Session) to the Earl of Lauderdale - 11th March, 1668

Respecting difficulties in the getting back from the Lord Provost monies which are due to him, being the profits of the Chamber for full 16 months. Desires his Lordship's interference in his behalf.

91 Catherine Countess of Devonshire to the Earl of Lauderdale - 31st Oct. 1671

In favour of her old servant Mr. Ward, whose business is before his Lordship, and has equity enough to recommend it.

uns 192 Earl of Anglesey to the Duke of Lauderdale

Oct. 21, 1673 / -/

Home news. Account of the prorogation of Parliament, and the resolution of the House of Commons in its last moments, for an Address to the King, to hinder the Duke of York's marriage with a Papist. No news yet of the Duchess of York's journey. The Lord Clifford died on Friday last, with excessive bleeding of the nose. Sir W. Lockhart appointed Ambassador to France.

93 Lord Montgomerie to the Earl of Lauderdale

Aug. 7, 1660 -

Soliciting a place for his kinsman, David Montgomerie. He writes with confidence of not being foiled in his wish, as it is the only favour of that kind which he has or will ask.

Face 94 William Lord Willoughby to the Earl of Lauderdale Barbadoes, July 26, 1667

Finds some of his Lordship's nation there, and good subjects; wishes there were 3 or 4000 of them sent, they would be entertained upon honourable terms, and be freemen after one year's service, or be well paid for four years' service. By such a supply he would be able to grapple with Monsieur. The Island, if rightly supplied, may give checkmate to Don, Hans, and Monsieur, whenever his master pleases. There are more than a good many Irish among us, therefore I am for the downright Scot, whom I am certain will fight without a crucifix about his neck. Is in dayly expectation of hearing from his Son and Sir John Harman, who are on an expedition to Cayenne with 800 men. He hopes to have a good account of that place and Surinam, with other places possest by the French and Dutch, on their return. This is the richest fleet that ever left Barbadoes, fifty sail worth a million and a half.

95 J. Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, to the Duchess of Lauderdale - - no date

Desires to know if the Queen has any commands to Newmarket: dare not wait on her Majesty, because he has a little child sick of the small-pox.

96 Countess of Rochester to the Duchess of Lauderdale no date

Concerning the indisposition of the Duchess of York, &c.

97 Lord Arlington to the Earl of Lauderdale

Aug. 26, 1672 frace

Sends him the news of De Witt's having been torn in pieces by the common people. Begs he will make what haste he can to return, for though his presence where he is may be of much use to his Majesty's service, it would be of more here.

98 The Same to the Same

June 15, 1672

Foreign intelligence. Lord Hallifax sent to congratulate the birth of the young Monsieur. The King has honoured him by giving him the Garter.

11. 6 99 Lord Ashley to the Earl of Lauderdale Aug. 8, 1666 to see

Thanks him for his news. The secrecy and haste of such contracts not for the King's service. Will be in London in obedience to the King's commands, on Tuesday, though his Doctors importune him to a longer stay.

100 Lord Ward to the Duke of Lauderdale Oct. 25, 1678 Flux

A fall from his horse in hunting, prevents him from travelling; he therefore requests his Grace to be his proxy, and to ask the King's leave for it.

101 Earl of Essex (afterwards murdered in the Tower)

Dublin Castle, 17th June, 1673

A cause between Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Glandee having lately come before him, the matter appeared very foul on Mr. Glandee's part, and the worse because he was a Clergyman. Is told he means to apply to his Lordship, but is confident he will not countenance so ill a man. Desires to be apprised of it, should he make any application, that he may transmit the history, and so prevent an ex parte statement from coming before the King.

102 Lord Brouncker to the Earl of Lauderdale

13th Nov. 1664 ad vice

In favour of Sir Robert Moray's being made a Commissioner of the Lebra Navy.

103 Edward Lord Conway to * Gth March, 1624

Is prevented by a cold from waiting of his Majesty. Has prepared a safe conduct for Gondomar, which he sends for the King's signature.

- 104 Sir B. Skelton (Ambassador in Bohemia) to the Duke of Lauderdale - ⁶/₁₀th Sept. 1679 Letter of compliment, with some little foreign intelligence.
- 105 Sir John Home (Lord Justice Clerk) to Lord Lauderdale 14th Dec. 1663

 In favour of Sir William Callander, desirous to become a Lord of

In favour of Sir William Callander, desirous to become a Lord of Session.

106 William Duke of Hamilton to the Earl of Rothes
17th Feb. 1668

Account of a rising near Hamilton; his pursuit of the rebels, &c.

107 Sir Thomas Haye (Clerk of the Council) to the Earl of Lauderdale - 17th Feb. 1670

Account of proceedings before the Council, chiefly reports of the Commissioners.

the Earl of Rothes, and 18 other Lords of Scotland, upon his happy Escape from the pretended Popish Plot - - 30th Nov. 1678

109 Lords of the Council (six in number) to the Duke of Lauderdale - Lanerk, April 24, 1679

They appear to have been a Deputation sent to enquire into the circumstances of the Rebellion. They report, that the rebels are such rogues as cannot be reached either by parties or process; that they have established armed field-conventicles at many distant places, and that they rob and murther such as are employed in collecting the revenue. They are so much encouraged here, and from England, that the legal courses recommended by his Majestie's letter are quite ineffectual. They have therefore thought proper to summon the Privy Council at Edinburgh for the last of April, when the circumstances will be laid before them. The violences having mostly begun in the Duke of Hamilton's shire (whom they seem to suspect of favouring them) they have therefore required his Grace's attendance, with that of his nephew, Lord Carmichael, upon the Council, to hear what they have to say.

110 Sir John Maitland Lord Thirlestane (Lord Chancellor of Scotland) to some person not named

Edinb. 18th May, 1589

From the nature of the sickness of the person he addresses, he judges that his own natural air will be the most effectual remedy; and as the troubles increase dayly where he is, advises him to return home immediately. If he shall have occasion for more [money?] than the bearer shall deliver to him, he must use his credit with his host, or any other person there, which shall be thankfully repaid at his home coming. The Letter is probably addressed to his Son.

111 to 118 Sir Robert Cecyll (Secretary of State to Elizabeth) to the Lord Gray - 20th Feb. 1601 advectors

This and the following Letters of this able but Machiavelian statesman, form a curious Supplement to his Secret Correspondence published in 1776 by Lord Hailes. He was certainly playing Lord Gray false. Sir H. Neville had perhaps given Cecil an unfavourable impression of his character; for he writes thus in June 1529: "The Master of Gray hath been twice with me, whom I take to be hollow and venal, for he said he was free, and owed no respect or service to any Prince, further than they should give him cause.—If your Honour entertaine any intelligence with him, you shall better discover him than I; but for any thing I have seene in him, I would not think him a man worthy to lose much upon."

119 Francis Earl of Bedford, and Thomas Randolphe, to the Earl of Leicester Berwick, 23d Nov. 1564

Account of a conference with Murray and Maitland, about a Husband for Mary Queen of Scots, in which, by Elizabeth's instructions, they proposed Leicester; and Murray and Maitland protested they wished it could take effect. They refer for fuller information to their dispatch to the Queen.

120 Sir William Cecyll (Secretary to Elizabeth) to Maitland Lord of Ledington (Secretary to Mary)

no date

Disappointment in a meeting. He had been to lay some lime-twigs to catch certain woodcocks, i.e. the Hostages of France, who were endeavouring to escape.

- 82 SWIFT (DEAN). This Letter is dated London, Sept. 9th, 1710, and addressed to Stella, by the following direction to Mrs. Dingley, at Mr. Curry's house, over against the Ram in Capel-street, Dublin, Ireland. It forms the first Letter of his Journal, which he forwarded to Stella during his stay in London, when "the Whigs were ravished to see him, and would lay hold of him as a twig while they are drowning." He then mentions the manner with which he has been received by different public characters, such as the "Duke of Ormond," "Jack Temple and his Wife," "Lady Wharton," "The Tatler," "Will Franklyn," "Jeremy Lee," &c., and that he shall return to Dublin and Laracor with more satisfaction than ever he did in his life: very curious
- 83 STERNE (LAWRENCE), dated Paris, 1762, while on his journey to the South of France, and probably at the time he was writing his "Sentimental Journey," for he says, "Iam hard at work, and when I am down at my house at Toulouse, you will soon see about what."

- 109 Montague (Lady Mary Wortley) to Mrs. Hewett, at Worksop,—she says, "Mr. Sterne, the titular bishop, was last week married to a very pretty woman, Mrs. Bateman, whom he fell in love with for falling backward from her horse; Lady Montague, dated Brussels, 1786 2

110	MARGARET CAVENDISHE, DUCHESS OF PORTLAND.
	This Letter is addressed to the speaker Onslow, dated April 3, 1753, and relates to the sale of her father's collection of Manuscripts. "The proposal made to her by Parliament for the purchase of them, she only accepts upon one condition, viz. that this great and valuable Collection shall be kept together in a proper Repository, as an addition to the Cotton Library, and to be called by the name of the HAR LEIAN COLLECTION OF MANUSCRIPTS." She concludes by saying, she does not consider the price offered by Parliamen
	as by any means adequate to its value

London for 249 Ducats - 1
195 SYDNEY (ROBERT), Viscount Lisle, afterwards Earl of Leicester, dated 25th of February, 1607. It is an acknowledgment of a debt of sixteen pounds eighteen shillings and eight-pence, which he promises to pay at Whitsontyde next;
but, by a receipt written in the corner, dated 23d of June, 1609, only six pounds appear to have been paid in part of the debt; Dudley, Earl of Leycester, dated 6th of Nov.

- 1657, being a receipt for one hundred pounds, the half years annuity granted to him by the Earl of Northumberland, 2 196 SYDNEY (ALGERNON), dated Frankfort, 8th of Sept. 1660,

King), 19th of January, 1722; a Remonstrance on the conduct of King James, addressed to the Duke of Berwick, dated St. Germains, 14th of Oct. 1695, very curious
- 207 WASHINGTON (GENERAL) to R. Cary and Co. merchants in London, dated Williamsburg, June 1, 1774; he states, that the general failure of his wheat crops has prevented his remitting the account due; a few months after writing this Letter, he was appointed to the command of the American armies
- 208 Twelve beautiful Specimens of various Oriental Writings, one signed by Sir David Octerlony, and one is the direction of a Letter from the Grand Signior to George III., dated 1806
- SIGNATURES WRITTEN BY EACH MEMBER OF THE VERY CELEBRATED WHIG CLUB, FROM ITS FORMATION IN 1784, UNTIL ITS DECLINE. This is one of the most interesting and curious volumes ever offered for public sale, wherein may be found the Autographs of all those distinguished characters who solemnly pledged themselves to support the constitution of this country according to the principles established at the glorious revolution. Among them are the signatures of R. B. Sheridan, C. J. Fox, Edmund Burke, T. Erskine, Sir P. Francis, Dr. Parr, Judge Garrow, G. Byng, Runnington, Lord Deiby, Duke of Portland, W. Adam, W. Wyndham, T. Dundas, Lord Foley, E. Law, (Lord Ellenborough), Duke of Devonshire, Lord Inchequin, Marquis of Titchfield, J. Perry, Col. M'Mahon, Sir J. C. Hippesley, Judge Holroyd, G. Tierney, Lord Petre, Sir J. Mackintosh, Lord Albemarle, Montague Burgoyne, Colonel O'Kelly, Joseph and William Bolland, &c. &c. forming but a small portion of the nine hundred and thirteen names affixed to the Rules and Regulations of this once famous Club. This volume is as UNIQUE as the members of it were independent, and their principles glorious!

ENGLISH LITERATI, &c.

- 210 Cavallo (Tiberius;) two volumes, containing one hundred and fifteen original letters, written from the year 1782 to 1809. They are addressed to Dr. Lind, and form a complete series of the results of the philosophical experiments of this indefatigable and learned man during upwards of twenty years; and are embellished throughout with his own Sketches and Drawings of mathematical, and other new invented instruments, &c. &c. with his portrait 115
- 211 Mackenzie (James Stewart), Lord Privy Seal of Scotland, brother to John, Earl of Bute; eighteen original letters, on various literary and scientific subjects, written during the years 1773 to 1798
- 212 Maskelyne (Dr. Nevil;) fourteen original letters, bound in one volume, from this celebrated astronomer, principally written to his friend, Dr. Lind, in 1769, giving an account of the transit of Venus over the sun, with various calculations, &c. &c. with his portrait 14
- 213 Roberts (Rev. Peter;) thirteen original letters, bound in one volume: he was author of several works, dated between 1799 and 1809 13

- 214 Roy (General), Engineer; eighteen original letters, bound in a volume, written between 1771 and 1788, when he was engaged in measuring the heights of Scotland; he gives his trigonometrical and barometrical calculations, together with literary matter, forming a most desirable acquisition to men of science
- 215 Watt (James), of Birmingham, the celebrated engineer and inventor of steam-engines; thirteen original letters, relating chiefly to the progress of his labours in perfecting his stupendous machines
- 216 Wilson (Doctors Patrick and Alexander), of Glasgow. Twenty-two original letters, in one volume, on various philosophical subjects, written between the years 1769 and 1802. In a letter, dated 1783, Dr. P. Wilson says, in speaking of the Georgium Sidus, "I rejoice in the nomenclature of this new-found planet, and think Mr. Herschell's introduction on this subject very just and very elegant. "No prince ever deserved more praise, or more gratitude, from philosophers, than our excellent king." He also gives a ludicrous account of "aflying chariot," and adds, "the mention of that FELL WIGHT, JAMES WATT, abetting such a project, makes me begin to think more seriously of it; but, unless he sends up one of his fire-engines as the primum mobile, I cannot see where the necessary mechanical pulsive force is to come from" 22

THEATRICALS.
